Files also contain details of the specific complaint, which may disclose sensitive personal information relating to the client including personal health information, details of their religious beliefs or sexuality.	13-Nov-14
170	Community Services Directorate - Organisational Governance	Community Services Directorate - Organisational Governance	Accommodation - Support services, Property Services	41,42	Section 41: Housing ACT records contain the personal information of former and current Housing ACT tenant or social housing applicants. CSD considers that the importance of protecting the privacy of these people does not diminish over time and that therefore information which identifies them should not be released to the world at large and should be exempt from release under section 41 of the FOI Act 1989. The types of personal information which may be contained on the files over CSD is seeking this declaration include: marital status, family composition, employment information, income and assets information, social security information, addresses, signatures and so on. There is no public interest in releasing this information to anyone except the individual to whom the personal information belongs.	13-May-15
170	Community Services Directorate - Organisational Governance	Community Services Directorate - Organisational Governance	Accommodation - Support services, Property Services	41,42	Section 42: Legal professional privilege does not expire unless it is waived by the client, which in the context of the ACT Government is the Attorney General of the ACT. Communications between the CSD and the ACTGS for the primary purpose of seeking/providing legal advices are privileged from disclosure unless that privilege is waived by the AG. Documents on the files include correspondence between Housing ACT officers and the ACTGS, for example for the purpose of drafting contract agreements or seeking advice regarding other legal matters. I do not consider that officers processing FOI requests have the authority to provide information to the public which would otherwise be privileged from disclosure and therefore section 42 should be applied to such information.	13-May-15
170	Community Services Directorate - Organisational Governance	Community Services Directorate - Organisational Governance	Accommodation - Support services, Property Services	41,42	Accommodation Support Service File and Property Service Files: A section 28 declaration which reinstates section 37 and 41 of the FOI Act for records older than 20 years of age currently exists over Tenancy Management Files. This application seeks to extend the reinstatement of section 41 to other types of ACT Housing files, namely Accommodation Support and Property Services files, which frequently contain the same types of personal information as is found on Tenancy Management Files. This application also seeks to reinstate the section 42 exemption, as legal advice is often sought from the ACTGS and this is recorded on the above record for the example regarding matters including: contract management; acquisitions for properties; disposal of properties; disputes/litigation with tenants, contactors or lessees under a head lease; insurance issues and so on. It is important that section 42 can be applied to exempt information which is subject to legal professional privilege on all records in the category of Accommodation Support Services Files or Property Services. The specific types of documents which are located on these files cover a range of matters, and as per previous section 28 declarations requests from CSD, a declaration is sought over the entire class of records which fall under either ASS files or PS.	13-May-15
